

Students in Italy Start Rioting

By EDWARD MAGRI
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — Rival groups of students battled with rocks and bundles of flaming rags today at the barricaded gates to the University of Rome.

The prospect of a government crisis and continued social unrest hung over the country only two weeks after the national election.

Nearly 300 anti-fascist students charged the closed gates of the university where nearly 2,000 pro-Chinese and anarchist students held control for the third straight day.

The attacking students stoned the defenders, who fired back from big piles of rocks they had heaped up near the gates.

Since a bitter outcry against police intervention in student riots last month, police have tried to stay out of battles on the campus. Only a dozen policemen were present.

They tried in vain to form a barricade between the battling students at the gates and used fire extinguishers to put out the flaming bundles that were hurled during the melee.

Premier Aldo Moro, whose Christian Democrats made gains in the election, will submit his resignation after the new Parliament convenes Wednesday.

This is required by custom after a national election, but Moro has no hopes of again forming a government with the center-left coalition he had led for the past five years.

His Socialist partners, who suffered losses in the voting, blamed them on the alliance with Moro's party and decided Saturday night to quit the coalition.

The decision plunged the country into a period of political uncertainty, deepened by outbreaks of student rioting over the weekend in Rome and Turin.

Police in both cities and in other large communities were on standby alert for further outbreaks.

A call for nationwide demonstrations by the Communist and Proletarian Socialist parties, allies and big winners in the May 19-20 elections, was still in effect. The weekend clashes between students and police in Rome and Turin followed that call.

The call for mass demonstrations was issued to show support for the workers and students defying President Charles de Gaulle in France.

But Italy has been bubbling with student discontent of its own for months and the real target of agitation in this country is plainly the Italian system, not the French.

The unrest in France provided a handy model for an alliance of disgruntled students and left-wing political parties. They seek educational, social and economic political parties.

The upsurge of unrest could not have come at a worse time for the government. With the Socialist defection, the only immediate prospect is a fragile minority government that could be easily toppled.

The moon has no atmosphere or water.

Congress Fears the Voters, Anxious to Close Out the Session

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A weary and uncertain Congress, fearing a negative national mood toward political incumbents, is eager to close out a lethargic session marked by decreasing congressional influence on major issues.

Consequently, Congress resumed work today following a brief Memorial Day break, far behind schedule but determined to finish early and adjourn for the political campaigns.

"Members always talk about adjourning early but this time they really seem to mean it," said one House aide.

Important events beyond Congress' control such as President Johnson's withdrawal from the presidential campaign, Vietnam peace talks, the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and city riots following his slaying have produced wariness and uncertainty in the House and Senate, especially among the majority Democrats. This was clear from numerous private conversations with members.

Although appropriations and other legislative business are far behind schedule, leaders are determined to wind up the session before the start of the national political conventions in August.

Some members are already campaigning.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy showed up in the Senate to vote for a milk protection measure the week before the Wisconsin primary. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has been away since mid-March.

Republican Whip Thomas Kuchel, seeking re-election, has been in California since April preparing for Tuesday's primary and Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon was here only twice in May as he fought the contest that last week gave him a slim margin for nomination to a fifth term.

The arrival of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's Poor People's Campaign in Washington was accompanied by some congressional action on anti-poverty proposals.

The Senate acted last week in two areas emphasized by the Poor People's Campaign—housing and food.

It passed and sent to the House $5 billion housing measure that had been scheduled weeks ago, then moved to eliminate restrictions that have prevented increased federal food shipments to poverty areas.

But both measures face an uncertain fate in the House, and there seems little likelihood of major legislation in other areas such as employment.

Although much of President Johnson's legislative program appears fated for oblivion, such bills as open housing and interest disclosure have already been passed. Action also is likely on the tax increase, anti-crime bill, fish and poultry inspection, higher education extension and manpower training program.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has said adjournment depends on the progress of the appropriations bills.

Only 5 of the 13 money bills for the year starting July 1 have cleared the House, one has passed the Senate and none have reached the White House. The last time Congress adjourned in August was in 1958. The 1960 and 1964 presidential years featured post-convention sessions of the sort leaders hope to avoid this year.

Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., of the House Rules Committee has set a July 9 deadline for his panel to clear bills for the House.

If Congress has to reconvene after the conventions, he said, "We will be harangued with political speeches for the rest of the year."

Natchez Is Rocked by Rioting

By W. C. CRIDER
Associated Press Writer

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — Jolted by a downtown riot, this river city spent a tightly buttoned up night under rigid curfew as police clamped down to prevent further violence.

"If things stay quiet I think the curfew will be lifted Wednesday," said City Attorney Joseph Zuccaro. "I expect the liquor ban to be lifted then, too."

With the city of 25,000 population under emergency law, 175 highway patrolmen were on hand to back up the 20-man police force.

The city, Adams County — and Vidalia, La., across the Mississippi River bridge from here — were shut down from 8:30 p.m. Sunday until 5:30 a.m. today except for travelers and certain exemptions, such as physicians or residents moving to or from jobs.

Patrols were everywhere in the city, a one-time Ku Klux Klan stronghold.

Except for neighborhood dogs, keyed to nervous alert by the strangeness of it all, little moved along the hilly streets. People who ventured out were stopped, questioned, frequently searched and sometimes arrested.

Zuccaro, named city spokesman by the Board of Aldermen, said 15 curfew violation arrests were recorded before midnight — in addition to 114 arrested during the day on concealed weapon charges.

Mayor John Nossor and the aldermen imposed temporary curfew and banned the sale of alcoholic beverages, guns, ammunition and knives after a riot was touched off by a shooting.

Enraged by a false rumor that a white man had killed a Negro, some 300 Negroes rampaged through a downtown section, smashing store windows. Two buildings were burned. Police said that some, but not much, looting was reported.

Nossor said 12 tear gas canisters were thrown and warning shots fired over the heads of the mob at one point.

"We had to do it," said Det. Capt. Frank Rickard. "They rushed us."

Police said the shooting that triggered the riot happened at a service station at 11:58 p.m. Saturday. The riot was under way by 12:30 a.m. Sunday. It wasn't completely put down until 4 a.m.

Three men arrested after the shooting—two young whites from West Monroe, La. and a Natchez Negro—were under $2,000 bond each. Two of them were recovering from pistol-bullet wounds.

602 Persons Killed Over the Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Memorial Day weekend traffic death toll fell short of early estimates made by the National Safety Council, but the loss of life was high.

The toll as the four-day weekend ended was 602. A total of 488 traffic fatalities were counted during a recent nonholiday weekend of the same length.

The safety council estimated the highway toll during the 102-hour holiday weekend would range between 625 and 725. Last year, a record 608 persons were killed on the nation's roads during the Memorial Day observance.

The recent nonholiday count of 488 highway deaths was made by The Associated Press for comparison against this year's Memorial Day toll.

In other outdoor accidents over the holiday period, boating mishaps claimed 37 lives and 116 persons drowned.

Three Killed in Explosion at a Plant

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) —

Three persons were known dead and 10 injured in a pre-dawn explosion that ripped through a finishing room of the Utica-Mohawk plant of J. P. Stevens & Co.

Officials at the plant said there was a possibility that at least two more persons also were dead.

A gas furnace exploded shortly after 4 a.m. in a finishing room of the big textile mill, located on the outskirts of Clemson in northwestern South Carolina.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There's been a lot of action in the world of television and radio. Now it seems there's a psychedelic action-adventure series. It's "The Prisoner," a British series that had its American premiere in Jackie Gleason's Saturday night hour.

Patrick McGeehan is the star of the CBS show, which is just about the nicest thing one can say about it. He is still the chilly-eyed, intrepid daredevil of his old "Secret Agent" series, but he's in the middle of a new format that is really something else.

It appears to be the flip side of the "Fugitive" idea—each week the hero makes some ingenious attempt to escape from his prison. The obvious flaw in that, from the viewer's standpoint, is that each week "The Prisoner"—he has no other name—winds up the loser. At least "The Fugitive" managed to outwit his pursuers and keep running at the end of each episode.

The show opened with the hero, who has resigned suddenly from some terribly important, mysterious government post, being knocked out by gas in his London flat. He comes to in a pretty village that looks like a cross between Brigadoon and a push health resort. He does not know where he is. He is threatened by some obviously ruthless but urbane men who rule the prison village.

And then the show becomes an exercise in electronic gimmickry and science fiction. His Big Brother captors go in for electronic surveillance so elaborate that even the statues in the local graveyard conceal closed-circuit television cameras. Of course, all the inhabitants of the village are, like himself, prisoners, but unlike our hero, they are terrified.

The hour seemed like one period of frustration and, on the part of this viewer, confusion about what was going on. The production values, however, were high—the sets were handsome and elaborate and it was interestingly filmed. But watching the summer replacement was rather like being caught up in a nightmare.

The "confrontation" between Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy and Robert F. Kennedy on ABC Saturday night turned out to be a generally restrained double interview of the two men which resolved itself into a discussion of positions. Both participants kept their gloves on throughout and tempers threatened to rise only in a flareup over some campaign literature.

Both men seemed very much at ease before the cameras.

On Sunday, McCarthy was the interviewee on CBS's "Face the Nation" and, an hour later, Kennedy was on ABC's "Issues and Answers." Each seemed less restrained when he appeared as the solo guest, although the questions were sharper and tougher. They fielded them with ease and, occasionally, humor.

All this exposure of the presidential aspirants leads, of course, to Tuesday's primaries which the networks will cover, after 11 p.m. EDT.

Court Upsets Narcotics Conviction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upset today the narcotics conviction of a Los Angeles man because federal customs officers who made the arrest entered a closed but unlocked door.

Justice Thurgood Marshall said in the 8-1 decision: an unannounced intrusion into a dwelling, basically prohibited under federal law, "is no less an unannounced intrusion whether officers break down a door, force open a chain lock on a partially open door, open a locked door by use of a passkey or, as here, open a closed but unlocked door."

The federal officers were led in February 1966 to the apartment of Johnny Sabbath by William Jones picked up a day earlier at San Ysidro's port of entry after he crossed the border from Mexico with about an ounce of cocaine.

Jones was sent to Sabbath's apartment outfitted with a radio transmitting device. The agents followed five or 10 minutes later, knocked on the unlocked door and, hearing no response, entered. They found the package of cocaine under a cushion on the sofa.

Sabbath was convicted of knowingly importing cocaine and concealing and facilitating its transportation and concealment. He was sentenced to concurrent 10-year prison terms. The U.S. Circuit Court in San Francisco ruled the arrest lawful last June and Sabbath appealed to the Supreme Court.

Justice Hugo L. Black dissented.

Services for Alvin Bell Set Monday

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Funeral services were scheduled for 2 p.m. today for Alvin Bell, former director of the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Department, who died suddenly at his Little Rock apartment Saturday.

Bell, 66, served as director of the ABC from June 1, 1965, until last Jan. 11, when he was fired by the ABC Board at the request of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller. Bell had refused to resign.

Bell, a former basketball star at Vanderbilt University, was well known for his football officiating throughout the nation, but primarily in the Southeastern Conference.

He refereed four Sugar Bowl games, three Cotton Bowl games, one Orange Bowl game and eight Blue-Gray Classics. He also officiated at the Olympic basketball trials at Madison Square Garden in New York in 1936.

CRIME IN

set up their plywood shanties near the white marble columns of the Lincoln Memorial and a massive demonstration has been announced for around June 19.

Tourist business was off an estimated 20 per cent in May. Uncertainty about what will happen caused the reduction, the City Visitors Bureau said.

But while tourists drive to see the encampment of the poor, Resurrection City, U.S.A., the vast majority of Washington citizens go about their daily business as usual.

Since the civil disorders in early April, more people are speaking out about crime and about putting more policemen on the streets.

The holdup-killing of a bus driver May 17 focused attention on bus robberies.

It also brought a stop to night bus service with drivers refusing to carry change at night. The drivers said the change, from $50 to $100, was "holdup bait." The city has been without regular night bus service since May 20 while solution to the dispute is sought.

Johnson asked for the additional policemen last week when he signed a bill raising the starting salary of Washington firemen and policemen to $8,000 annually.

The manpower increase, if approved by Congress, would mean a total of 4,100 policemen. Most of the new ones would be put on street patrols, city officials said.

The officials already have increased patrols in high-crime neighborhoods and authorized substantial overtime for policemen.

Tourism is big business in Washington. In the spring school children by the thousands come in their chartered buses and the families come after school is out.

SHE WAITED TOO LONG

Dear Helen: After 18 years of waiting for the other cheek, I finally exploded to my mother-in-law.

She has always been very cruel, wordwise, but only when no one else could hear her but me and my children.

I finally couldn't take her slams and criticisms any more, especially as it began to hurt our girls. She constantly dug into me about being Italian-Catholic, made remarks about our "color," our "superstitions," etc. When I exploded, she told my husband that I am "sick," and also that I'm ashamed that I'm Italian. He half-way believes her. At least he acts worried.

I guess that's the trouble with never letting your real feelings show. When you finally can't hold them back any longer, the REAL guilty party has a perfect out: "The poor thing must be going crazy."—HAD IT

Dear Had It: You're so right—and that's why constant "turning the other cheek" can only get you slapped around.

Now that you've finally made your stand, don't back down—but be calm and polite about it. Your husband and daughters know you aren't "sick." And so does your m-in-l, who, after her initial howls, will probably develop more respect for you than she has had in the last 18 years.—H

Dear Helen: You asked for personal experiences with computer match-making. Here's my story: When I was 18, I fell for a handsome man with whom I had a little in common, but I was sure that "love would conquer all."

Twenty years later my marriage fell apart and I faced the humiliation of divorce while my husband gave up his children and career for a girl young enough to be his daughter.

At age 40, I realized that background and values are of the utmost importance in marriage, and that friendship and respect are the greater part of love.

With this in mind, I tried the scientific method to find a dinner date and help cure my loneliness. Through the computer, I found a wonderful man who is the kind of person I should have been seeking 20 years ago.

Perhaps I am just one of the lucky ones, but I am certain the computer method should not be overlooked in seeking a mate. After all, computers often take the mistakes out of business. Why shouldn't they be used in the advancement of human relations?—HAPPIER THAN EVER

Dear Happier: I can't help observing that computers have been known to make monumental mistakes—but then, so do humans.

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! in this newspaper.

SHE WAITED TOO LONG

Dear Helen: After 18 years of waiting for the other cheek, I finally exploded to my mother-in-law.

She has always been very cruel, wordwise, but only when no one else could hear her but me and my children.

I finally couldn't take her slams and criticisms any more, especially as it began to hurt our girls. She constantly dug into me about being Italian-Catholic, made remarks about our "color," our "superstitions," etc. When I exploded, she told my husband that I am "sick," and also that I'm ashamed that I'm Italian. He half-way believes her. At least he acts worried.

I guess that's the trouble with never letting your real feelings show. When you finally can't hold them back any longer, the REAL guilty party has a perfect out: "The poor thing must be going crazy."—HAD IT

Dear Had It: You're so right—and that's why constant "turning the other cheek" can only get you slapped around.

Now that you've finally made your stand, don't back down—but be calm and polite about it. Your husband and daughters know you aren't "sick." And so does your m-in-l, who, after her initial howls, will probably develop more respect for you than she has had in the last 18 years.—H

Dear Helen: You asked for personal experiences with computer match-making. Here's my story: When I was 18, I fell for a handsome man with whom I had a little in common, but I was sure that "love would conquer all."

Twenty years later my marriage fell apart and I faced the humiliation of divorce while my husband gave up his children and career for a girl young enough to be his daughter.

At age 40, I realized that background and values are of the utmost importance in marriage, and that friendship and respect are the greater part of love.

With this in mind, I tried the scientific method to find a dinner date and help cure my loneliness. Through the computer, I found a wonderful man who is the kind of person I should have been seeking 20 years ago.

Perhaps I am just one of the lucky ones, but I am certain the computer method should not be overlooked in seeking a mate. After all, computers often take the mistakes out of business. Why shouldn't they be used in the advancement of human relations?—HAPPIER THAN EVER

Dear Happier: I can't help observing that computers have been known to make monumental mistakes—but then, so do humans.

Marichal Is First Nine Game Winner

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

A new page in the calendar hasn't changed Juan Marichal's habits, but Willie Stargell and the St. Louis Cardinals are busting out all over.

Marichal became the first nine-game winner in the majors Sunday, shacking Los Angeles off three hits for his fifth straight victory since May 7 as the San Francisco Giants ousted the Dodgers 5-1.

Stargell, notorious for his June batting rambages, belted six hits, including a pair of homers, and knocked in six runs as Pittsburgh divided a double-header with Atlanta, winning the opener 8-4 before bowing 10-6.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, soared back into the National League lead after 11 days off the pace by sweeping a twin bill from the New York Mets 6-3 and 3-2.

Cincinnati trimmed Philadelphia 5-3 and the Chicago Cubs took Houston 3-2 in 12 innings in other National League games.

Marichal, 32, turned in his strongest performance of the year on the way to his fifth complete game triumph since Houston beat him 7-1 nearly a month ago. The Giants' ace blanked the Dodgers on two scattered hits until Wes Parker homered in the ninth.

Jim Hart and Dick Dietz each drove in two runs as the Giants punished loser Don Sutton and three relievers with a 13-hit attack.

Stargell hiked his batting average 23 points to .302 and grabbed the league lead in homers, with 10, and RBI, with 30, while wearing out Atlanta pitching. The big outfielder, who has homered in four consecutive games, delivered four runs in the first game with two singles, a double and a homer.

His two-run homer and a bases-empty shot by Roberto Clemente gave the Pirates a 3-0 first inning lead in the nightcap, but the Braves, led by Deron Johnson and Felipe Alou, rebounded behind a 17-hit barrage to gain the split.

Johnson cracked four singles and drove in two runs in a five-run seventh inning flurry that sent the Braves ahead to stay. Alou, who had four hits in the first game, contributed three more singles. He drove in the tying run and scored the go-ahead run in the seventh and singled again in the eighth to start a three-run insurance burst.

Roger Maris scored the winning run from first base on Orlando Cepeda's pop fly single in the seventh inning of the second game at New York, enabling the Cardinals to run their winning string to five games and move one-half length ahead of the Giants. Atlanta is one game behind in third place.

Dick Simpson's two-run homer and two-run singles by Mike Shannon and Tim McCarver backed Bob Gibson's strong pitching in the opener.

Jim Maloney stopped Philadelphia on five hits and the Reds wiped out a 3-2 deficit with three fifth inning runs. Vada Pinson doubled home the tying run with two out in the fifth and scored on Alex Johnson's single before Lee May capped the rally with a run-scoring pinch single.

Ron Santo smacked a game-tying homer in the eighth inning at Houston and delivered a sacrifice fly in the 12th after Billy Williams' one-out triple. The victory left the Cubs in fourth place, just two games off the pace.

Dick Crawford of the Los Angeles Angels won $778 with his 292 finish after shooting a 97 in the final round.

Lunn Fires a 8 Under Par

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
ATLANTA (AP)—Bob Lunn, the 23-year-old Californian who won his first pro title a week ago at the Memphis Open, fired a finishing 65 for an eight-under-par 280 and scored a three-stroke triumph over Lee Trevino in the Atlanta Classic Golf Tournament Sunday.

Jonesboro Golf Team Victorious

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—A golfing team from Jonesboro has captured the 1968 Arkansas Seniors Golf Association Championship.

John Buzick and Barney Osmont swept to the title Sunday with a 36-hole score of 137 over the Hot Springs Golf and Country Club course.

Lloyd Ramer and John Porter of Little Rock finished second with a 142.

Top honors in the low net category went to W. C. Simmons and C. E. Snowden of Hot Springs with a 127. One stroke further back was the Little Rock team of Sam O'Boyle and Henry Wilkerson.

Nicklaus to Defend U.S. Open Title

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The final qualifying round to determine the 150 man field for the United States Open Golf championship begins in five locations today, with 206 players competing for 45 places.

Most of the glamor pros, including defending champion Jack Nicklaus, are among the 34 players who are exempt from all qualifying rounds for the 72 hole championship at the Oak Hill Country Club Rochester, N.Y., June 13-16.

The other 116 spots will be filled today and Tuesday in 36 hole sectional qualifying rounds with a total of 470 pros and 131 amateurs competing in 13 locations.

Among those competing are six former Open champions and 56-year-old Sam Snead, still looking for the big one that got away.

Snead has won more than 100 tournaments and all the world's major titles—except the U.S. Open. He's been second four times. He will try for a spot in the final field Tuesday at Indianapolis.

Qualifying rounds were scheduled today at Denver, Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas and Seattle.

The field will be completed Tuesday with qualifying rounds at Bakersfield, Calif., San Francisco, Washington, Detroit, St. Louis, Montclair, N.J., Pittsburgh and Indianapolis.

Players exempt from all qualifying are:

Open and PGA champions of the last five years—Julius Boros, Ken Venturi, Gary Player, Billy Casper, Nicklaus, Bobby Nichols, Dave Marr, Al Gelberger and Don January.

British Open champion Roberto de Vicenzo.

Last year's low 15 scorers, and tied, in the open not otherwise exempt—Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Bob Goalby, Deane Beman, Gardner Dickinson, Kel Nagel, Art Wall, Al Balding, Wes Ellis, Tom Weiskopf, Jerry Pittman, Dutch Harrison, Paul Harney, Bob Verwey, Dave Hill, Miller Barber and Marty Fleckman.

Last year's 15 leading money winners not otherwise exempt—Dan Sikes, Doug Sanders, Frank Beard, George Archer, Gay Brewer, Bob Charles and Bert Yancey.

Most of the touring pros not exempt will attempt to qualify at Atlanta, including Bob Lunn, winner of the last two tour tournaments. He took the Memphis Open week before last and capped the Atlanta classic Sunday.

Included in the Atlanta field are former Open Champions Jack Fleck, Dick Mayer, Tommy Bolt and Cary Middlecott, who won the Open in 1956, the last time it was played at Oak Hill.

Others at Atlanta are Chi Chi Rodriguez and former PGA champions Lionel and Jay Herbert.

Lew Worsham, 1947 Open champion, is among those finishing at Pittsburgh, along with Bryce Devlin, Bobby Cole and Tony Jacklin.

Sox in 4 Game Sweep Over Twins

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Cal Ermer was the first man on Minnesota's plane out of Chicago, he could hardly be blamed. Those White Sox can drive any manager to distraction and Ermer certainly had his fill of them over the weekend.

The Sox completed a four-game sweep from the Twins Sunday with 3-2 and 4-3 victories that boosted their total runs for the series to 10. Ten runs and they swept?

After losing 2-1 in 14 innings Friday night and 1-0 despite 8 1-3 hitless innings pitched by Dean Chance Saturday, Ermer should have been ready for anything Sunday. And he was too, except, perhaps, for the ball boy, who, of course, helped the Sox beat him.

In other American League action, Oakland defeated California 5-2, Detroit split with New York, losing 4-3 before winning 8-1, Cleveland split with Washington, winning 10-5 and then losing 11-3, and Baltimore bested Boston 4-3 in a game ended by rain after 5 1/2 innings.

Now, for Ermer and the ball boy.

Tommy Davis, who had opened the fourth inning of the first game with a double, was on second and Gerry McNertney on first with two out when Tim Cullen doubled down the left field line. Both runners scored as shortstop Cesar Tovar and left fielder Rich Reese stumbled around the youngster, who is stationed in the corner to retrieve foul balls.

The Twins protested but Umpire John Rice ruled the boy hadn't interfered intentionally and the runs scored. Rollins singled home a run in the eighth that snapped a 23-inning scoreless string for Minnesota. But McNertney's suicide squeeze brought in another run for the Sox in the bottom half and gave them enough to stand off a last-gasp Minnesota rally in the ninth.

McNertney then snapped a 3-3 tie in the ninth inning of the nightcap with a single that secured the sweep. Earlier, Tony Oliva, who had six straight hits, tagged his second homer of the game, tying it for Minnesota. Oliva and Harmon Killebrew had consecutive homers in the second inning and Cullen had a two-run shot for Chicago.

Jim Hannan allowed a double and homer to the first two batters he faced, then mowed down 26 Indians in a row before allowing two more hits, and hurled Washington to its second game victory over Cleveland. Bill Bryan tagged a three-run homer that touched off a seven-run rally for the Senators.

Joe Azcue tagged five straight singles and Larry Brown had four singles as Cleveland romped to the first game victory. Chico Salmon's three-run homer helped the Indians to an 8-0 lead after two innings.

Jim Nash pitched Oakland's sixth consecutive complete game with a five-hitter that beat California. Nash struck out five men in the first two innings and finished with eight. Five doubles—two of them by Floyd Robinson—and an inside the park homer by Reggie Jackson powered the A's.

Baltimore pushed a run across in the fifth inning on Curt Motton's two-out single and edged the Red Sox with rain ending the game in the sixth. Curt Blefary tripled two runs home for the Orioles and Carl Yastrzemski homered for Boston.

Mickey Stanley tagged his first career grand slam homer, capping a six-run Detroit rally that carried the Tigers past the Yankees. John Hiller pitched a six-hitter to nail down the victory.

Tom Tresh doubled in the ninth inning and scored on a disputed play at home plate for the Yankees' winning run in the opener. Tresh beat shortstop Ray Oyler's throw to the plate and Detroit Manager Mayo Smith was ejected for arguing the call.

Forward Pass Loses Triple Try

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Why shouldn't a horse starting in his first stakes race win a Triple Crown event? Just about everything else has happened in the world's most famous series of races.

Stage Door Johnny staged a wing-ding of a windup to the wildest Triple Crown series in history by winning the 100th running of the Belmont Stakes Saturday at Belmont Park.

The Greentree Stable colt, whose only two previous victories were in a maiden race and an allowance test, caught Forward Pass with one-eighth of a mile to go and beat him to the wire by 1 1/4 lengths.

Thus ended a Triple Crown series that unfolded like the plot of a grade B movie.

Dancer's Image charged home first in the Kentucky Derby only to become the victim of the first disqualification in the 94-year history of the race when a post-race test disclosed an illegal medication in his system.

Calumet Farm's Forward Pass was moved to first by the disqualification and became eligible to be the ninth Triple Crown winner and first since Citation in 1948.

Forward Pass romped home in the Preakness but he had to share the headlines with Dancer's Image. This time Peter Fulmer's colt became the first to be disqualified in 93 Preakness runnings, being set down from third to eighth for interfering with two horses in the stretch.

Next came the Belmont, and this time Dancer's Image was out of the picture—the gimpy-ankled colt was retired to stud four days before the race.

Enter Stage Door Johnny; exit Calumet's hopes for a third Triple Crown.

With Heliodoro Gustines rating him perfectly, Stage Door

Pro Tennis Players Put Up a Front

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PARIS (AP)—Professional tennis stars may pretend they're not worried when they play amateurs in open tournaments, but it's all a front, say a player who ought to know.

"Consciously and subconsciously they are under a lot of pressure," said Allen Fox, eighth-ranking United States amateur and a doctor of psychology.

"We've seen evidence of it in the French championships in these last few days," Fox said. "Some of the pros have struggled to preserve their high reputations, and some of the amateurs who have played against the pros have raised their game high above its normal level."

The pro-against-amateur clashes have intrigued the public and sent attendance figures soaring to 10 times their usual level.

Only one pro—Fred Stolle of Australia—has been toppled by an amateur thus far. His opponent was Boro Jovanovic, a hard courts specialist from Yugoslavia.

But Ken Rosewall, Roy Emerson and Pancho Gonzales all have been seriously extended before overcoming amateur opposition.

Fox, 28, of Hollywood, Calif., took his doctorate at UCLA two months ago.

"As far as the amateurs are concerned, they will fall into two categories," Fox said. "Some will be inspired to play above themselves, and some will be overawed and fall completely."

One amateur in the first category certainly was Cliff Richey, U.S. Davis Cupper from San Angelo, Tex., who battled against Emerson for three hours Sunday before losing 6-0, 3-6, 6-8, 9-11.

Donahue Has Extended His Lead

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (AP)—Mark Donahue of Stony Brook, N.Y., extended his lead in the U.S. Road Racing Championship series Sunday by turning out a rain-soaked victory at Le Circuit Mont Tremblant-St. Jovite.

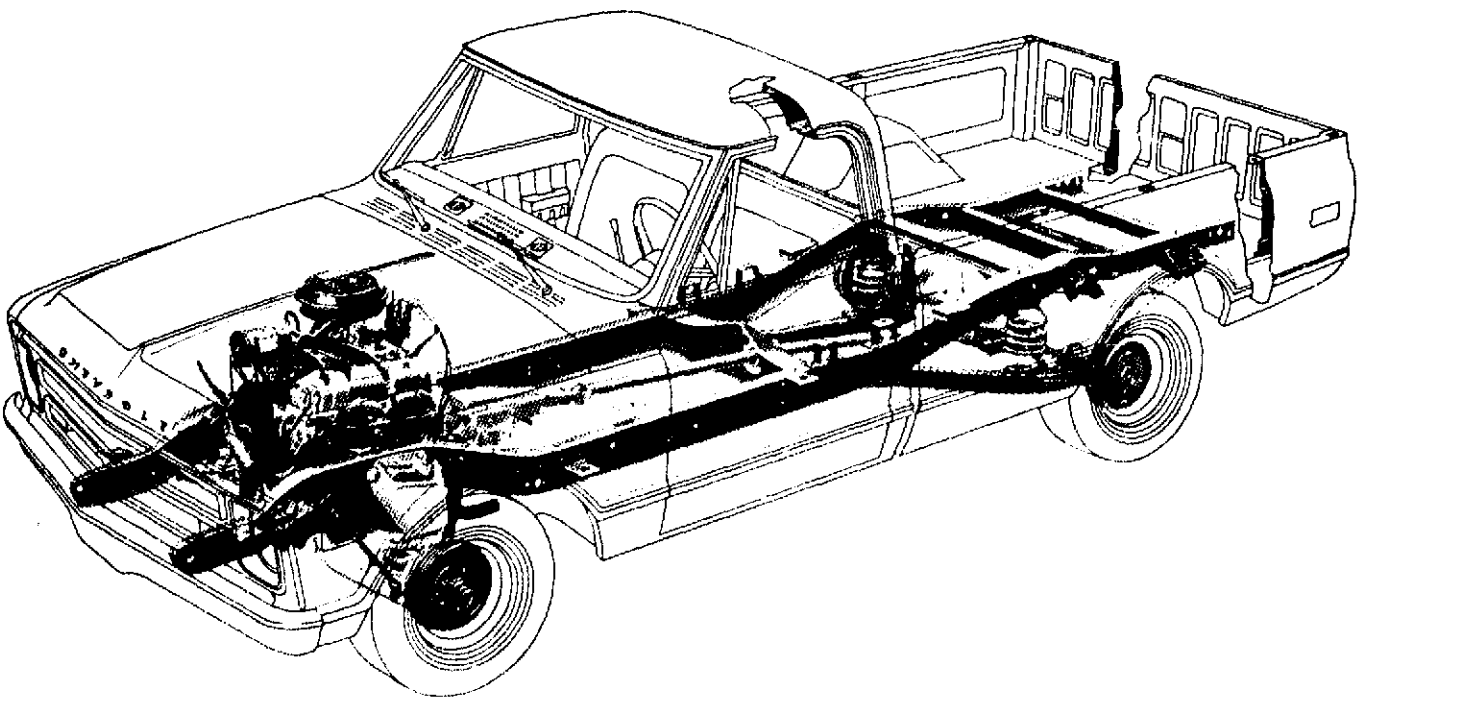

Donahue, driving a McLaren Chevrolet, posted a 39-second victory over Canadian John Cannon, also in a McLaren, in the fifth leg of the U.S. Championships.

The elapsed time for the 60 laps of the 2.8-mile Laurentian circuit was a slow two hours, five minutes and 17.8 seconds, with the winner driving at an average 80.44 miles per hour.

Donahue had the fastest lap of the day, 1:58.5.

Donahue captured the lead from the start, followed by Cannon, Lothar with Motschenbacher's McLaren Ford in third place. The leaders' positions did not change throughout the race.

CHEVY PICKUPS HAVE MORE INNER STRENGTH!

In fact, only Chevrolet gives you all these tough truck components and features!

- ROAD-BALANCED RIDE—Husky coil springs at all four wheels soak up bumps, assure a smooth ride for people and cargo. Standard on 1/2-ton and 3/4-ton models, all-round coil springs team perfectly with Chevy's famed independent front suspension.
- DOUBLE-WALL CARGO BOX—Fleetside pickups have double-wall side panels and tailgate to protect exterior sheet metal from damage caused by shifting loads. You wind up with a pickup that stays new looking longer.
- LADDER-TYPE FRAME—The same type used on the biggest Chevy haulers. Heavy-gauge channel side rails are riveted to alligator jaw crossmembers. The result is an extra-strong chassis foundation that withstands tough usage.
- DURABLE CAB CONSTRUCTION—Added strength comes from double-wall construction in roof, cowl, door pillars and sills. Special insulation keeps out heat, cold and noise.
- FRONT FENDER LINERS—Major deterrent to rust and corrosion. Smooth contoured design prevents mud build-up. Guards exterior sheet metal from corrosive road splash.
- EXTRA WORKPOWER—Six hefty engines provide a wide range of power choices. Two Sixes and four V8's are available. All run on regular gasoline for exceptional operating economy.

Budget $2 Million for Athletics

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "It's like having 280 kids in college at the same time," one athletic director of a large Midwest university groaned. "It's a financial back-breaker."

College athletics are in a money bind. They have become a high-pressure, multimillion-dollar business on most campuses. Costs have multiplied in the last decade. Football, once the breadwinner, no longer pays the freight.

Business managers—with a few exceptions, such as at Alabama and Notre Dame—are tightening their belts and putting in new orders for red ink.

Notre Dame's athletic budget has risen from $900,000 in 1963-64 to $2,000,000 in 1968-69 but it manages to operate in the black. Michigan State has seen its sports outlay mushroom from $147,000 in 1947 to $1,634,000 in 1967, an increase of 1,100 per cent.

In the Big Ten, long the symbol of big time college football, six of the ten members are reported operating at a loss. In the Big Eight, Kansas' budget has risen from $850,000 to $1.4 million in four years.

The sprawling universities of the Pacific Coast are similarly affected. In the hotbeds of the South and Southwest, where bowl teams are spawned, many of the colleges are dependent on booster clubs to keep their heads above water.

At major universities, athletic budgets run from $1,500,000 to as high as $3,200,000, the figure for Ohio State's 18-sport program.

Most of the sky-rocketing cost is purely economic, like the housewife's grocery list. The flashy gear to outfit one player runs around $150, quadruple what it was a few years ago. Jet travel costs more. Hotel and food prices have escalated.

The heavy burden, however, lies in the housing, feeding and educating of athletes on the cuff, so to speak. They are the players on grants-in-aid. They are given a free college education for their exploits on the field. In some cases, they are unlimited and run from $1,500 to $3,000 per year for each athlete.

Despite skyrocketing costs, many institutions, in order to keep pace with the escalation of big time college sport, have found it necessary to invest in giant, modern athletic complexes costing millions.

Purdue has just unveiled a new $17 million field house. Michigan's similar plant cost $14 million. Indiana has a new stadium and has authorized a new field house.

Notre Dame is completing an $8.6 million convocation and athletic building. Tennessee has one of the most modern sports plants in the country. Alabama has just opened a Sports Coliseum that makes the Taj Mahal look like Tobacco Road.

"These are not luxuries but necessities," argues a spokesman for the NCAA headquarters in Kansas City. "They are built to fill the needs of an exploding campus population."

Purdue's enrollment jumped from 12,700 in 1957 to 24,140 in 1967. The Big Ten, long symbolic of big time football, has seen its total enrollment jump 50 per cent in six years, with a present average of more than 29,000.

Michigan State has 38,100 students, Ohio State 31,800. On the Pacific Coast, Washington, UCLA and California are pushing 30,000.

"These student increases mean an expansion in facilities," the NCAA spokesman said. "More club sports, more teachers and coaches." That's just part of the problem. Students are given a priority on football tickets at a nominal fee of $1 each or nothing at all if included in student fees.

They are crowding out thousands of potential $5 and $6 customers in 80,000-seat stadiums. (Next: What's the cure?)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dave Buck, former Southern California half-miler, set a world record for the decathlon 1,500-meter run at 4:05.2, but John Warrentin of Fresno State took the over-all title at the Southern Pacific AAU Decathlon Sunday.

Golfer Was Buried Near 18th Green

STOW, Mass. (AP) — Edward Faber of Mansfield loved to play golf so much he wanted to be buried by the 18th green of the Stow Acres Country Club.

Faber died Feb. 14 at the age of 62. A memorial service was held at dusk Saturday on the 18th green. Sunday golfers noted with some incredulity the grave covering of flowers with two golf balls nestled in the stems.

Faber requested in his will that his cremated remains be buried on the course he so often played.

Robert Page, who owns the course with a brother, said "Some people thought it was a joke. Later, when they believed, they thought we were out of our minds. But we are serious. We think it is kind of nice."

Faber's widow said she was still somewhat taken aback by her husband's request, although "he talked often of it."

"He just loved the game so much," she said, "and this is what he really wanted, so I think it is nice, I am happy."

She said she was surprised and pleased by the cooperation of the owners.

"It wasn't easy to have to call them and say that my husband wanted to be buried on the green. I mean how do you explain something like that?"

The Page brothers said they were first stunned by the request but felt honored.

They said some of the club members seemed a bit upset, but one later added, "I'll turn out all right. Who knows, the players might even find it a help. Some golfer might over-shoot the green and there will be a friendly hand now to tap the ball back toward the green."

They plan to erect a plaque to mark the grave. "We thought that if he cared enough about the course we could do a little something for him out there," Robert Page said.

The memorial stone, he said, will bear the inscription: "In memory of Edward Faber, 1906 — 1968. Happy here with friends playing golf—the game he loved."

Race Track Stockholders to Meet

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — The stockholders of Southern Racing Corporation meet here today and are expected to discuss appointments to its board.

However, the state Racing Commission has blocked election of officers pending an investigation into the stockholders and presentation of biographies of stockholders, their holdings and personnel.

The commission asked for the resumes after Sen. Clarence Bell of Parkin told the Arkansas Legislative Council last month that a New York "syndicate" was attempting to gain control of the track.

The commission Saturday denied the greyhound dog racing track's request for 102-day racing season to begin June 21 because, it said, of the uncertainty of Southern's management and because it hadn't received the information if requested.

Patrick Wins the Mile Run

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Villanova's Dave Patrick won the ICA4 mile in 3:56.3, breaking the Eastern mile record of 3:58.6 set by Jim Ryan of Kansas in 1966 and smashing the meet record of 4:04.9 as all five front-runners finished in under four minutes Sunday.

The highly entertaining, as well as educational, program, entitled "The Magic of Communication," was enlivened with feats of magic by the speaker. Not the least of these feats was the telephone of the future with the sight as well as the sound of the speaker. "People Research" has determined the shape, size and color of your telephone, the speaker said, and more is being done to change the customary ring to a more desirable tone.

Ed Aslin arranged for the program and introduced the speaker, Vice-President Harold Eakley, president in the absence of the president, and he extended a welcome to club members and one visiting Rotarian, John McRae of Prescott.

Charges More Hurlers Are Using Grease

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Manager Herman Franks of the San Francisco Giants charges more and more National League pitchers are substituting grease for spit in doctoring the baseballs they throw.

Franks calls them "vaseline balls" and declared all three Los Angeles Dodgers pitchers his club faced during the weekend threw them.

He didn't limit his accusation to any particular team. "I never saw so many guys with vaseline in their hair—just plastered down," said Franks after his club had beaten the Dodgers 5-1 Sunday. "Under the new rules, as long as a pitcher doesn't go to his mouth, he can go anywhere he wants."

I've seen caps sopped with vaseline. Pitchers keep it any place, on their wrists, on their foreheads, behind their ears. Anybody can throw it and it only takes a dab.

"We've seen it all this season but now we see it more and more. I'd say between 20 and 30 are using it."

Franks didn't mention whether any of his Giants threw the super slippery delivery but there was no suggestion that Juan Marchal used anything artificial as he tossed a three-hitter to beat the Dodgers in the finale of a three-game series. Los Angeles won the first two.

The San Francisco manager was particularly pointed in saying Drysdale had substituted grease for spit, declaring, "He had one of the finer spitballs and now he has this. He's more effective because he throws harder."

Gaylord Perry of the Giants also had been accused of throwing the spitter but by the time Franks had finished his discourse, the Dodgers had left the clubhouse without the opportunity of replying.

Franks' point was that the league should investigate immediately and bring a halt to illegal doctoring.

The pocket gopher is capable of running backward.

Sonny Sells Out

NEW YORK — (N.E.A.) — David A. (Sonny) Werblin, who comes on as a good guy, has torn the last illusion of romanticism from sports.

By divesting himself of his 23.4 per cent of the New York Jets football team for a profit (before taxes) of $1.4 million, he has underscored the cynicism that really rules sports.

It's business, pure and simple, and that's why David A., who liked to think of the Jets as a fun thing, is no longer in football. And why he's bitter about pulling out.

It was all right as long as Sonny was president of the team and calling all the shots, despite his minority interest. The last three years he even got paid separately for the job. His four partners, the men he brought in to revive the sinking franchise five years ago, were his friends. He's known Phil Iselin, for instance, 30 years and considered him more like a member of the family. Sonny figured the friendship bit would go on interminably, and he'd go on running the Jets. It was a handsome arrangement. He'd only invested $230,000 to start with. Taxes and escalating expenses limited the Jet profits to $180,000 last year. But Sonny's end still amounted to $41,760, which is a handsome 18 per cent return on investment.

"Last year," he noted, "we made money for the first time, and all of a sudden they decided they wanted to rule the team by committee. It's been my experience, in show business or in sports, that committee rule is never successful."

The alternative was simple. Either Sonny buy out his four partners, or they buy him out. The evaluation agreed upon for the franchise was $7 million. Deducting what part he already owned, Sonny would have had to come up with $5,362,000.

He chose not to and pointed out he'd also have to pick up an indemnity of $1.8 million to the NFL and $800,000 in deferred bonus payments.

"If you're asking me if I have enough money to afford it," he said, "I do."

Still, it sounded like Sonny was passing up a real bargain considering that Jerry Wolman put a $15 million valuation on his Philadelphia Eagles, and San Diego and Montreal have to come up with $10 million each for the privilege of owning an expansion baseball team.

"It all depends," he shrugged, "on your particular financial situation."

What he meant was that it all depended on how much of the price paid for a team is tax deductible. The Miami Dolphins owners tried to write off the entire $7.5 million purchase price is depreciable, and so far the government hasn't allowed them a cent.

"They're sick about it," said Sonny.

When, then, is it financially feasible to buy a pro football franchise, the most desirable commodity in the sports market?

"When you don't have to put up more than $5 million hard money," he said. "All these other guys said, 'Why not pay another million?'"

"And I told them, 'That's why I've got the million and not you.'"

Which illustrates another point. No man hates to lose money more than a millionaire (and no guy dabbles around football less than a millionaire these days). It's all right to dabble with $400,000 quarterbacks and hire three-piece combos for your cocktail parties. And be the first guy into the locker room after a game. Or even get your name in the headlines. Those are the trimmings.

But the real game is making money, a solid 10 per cent return on the value of your property. And when you're squeezed out of that—well, you throw a last cocktail party and hire a combo. And explain that it really isn't worth the money.

Two Score Upsets in Track Meet

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN DIEGO (AP) — George Young, a 30-year-old school teacher, and Jim Hines, a sometimes frustrated sprinter, scored upset victories in the Champions track and field meet.

Young finished five yards ahead of world recordholder Ron Clarke of Australia in the two-mile to set an American record of 8:22 before 10,482 Saturday in Balboa Stadium.

Hines shook off an earlier loss in the 100-yard dash and nipped Tommie Smith, San Jose State's world recordholder, in the 220, which Smith claimed he won. Hines and Smith were caught in 20.3, three-tenths off Tommie's world mark.

Young, a Casa Grande, Ariz., health educator, passed Clarke in the last lap and his 58 second quarter enabled him to run history's second-fastest mile—2.2 seconds off Clarke's mark.

The 140-pound Young said he nearly dropped out of the meet last Wednesday.

"I was exhausted," he recalled. "I felt ill. The weather at home had been about 107 degrees but my coach advised me to go ahead and run and just do the best I could."

His previous 1968 best was 8:37.8.

In the 220, Hines grabbed a three-yard lead on the curve but Smith nearly made it a dead heat. Tommie refused to appear and claim his second-place award but did not lodge an official protest, meet officials said.

"You have to get Smith on the curve," said Hines, of the Houston Striders. "I was blasting all the way. Against Tommie, there is no other way."

Freeman Is Winner of Tournament

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jay Freeman of Little Rock won the junior veterans and veteran's singles titles Sunday in the state tennis tournament.

Freeman beat Joe Adams of England 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 for the junior veterans crown and then won by default over Dr. M. L. Shomer of El Dorado in the veterans singles. Shomer won the first set 6-3, lost the second 4-6 and then had to quit during the final set because of leg cramps.

Oswald: "What do you think of the way North and South reached their spade game?"
Jim: "The only difference between it and 'Papa-Mama' bidding lies in the fact that each of them pushed a trifle. South might well have stopped at two spades and North did not have much of a hand with which to go on to game."
Oswald: "North's decision to bid game was based on the well-known principle that you only want to stop one short when you don't think that there will be any chance at all to make a game contract. North could not tell if his hand would be what South wanted to see but North wanted game and rubber if he could possibly get it."
Jim: "In theory the game was worth bidding. It depended on the location of the spade king and therefore was even money to make."
Oswald: "In practice the chance to make game was far better than 50 per cent. South has two club losers provided the defense goes right out and collects two club tricks. There is one diamond loser in any event, and that same 50 per cent chance of a spade loser. West had to select an opening lead. He might have laid down his ace of diamonds and shifted to a low club or he might have opened a club. He did choose a low spade. South promptly won the opening lead; cashed his ace of spades and proceeded to discard one of dummy's clubs on a high heart."
Jim: "As you said West might have made a lead to beat the contract. He would, if he had another chance, but West had only one chance at the table and went wrong."

THE WELL CHILD®
Thumbsucking and Warts Are Unrelated Problems
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Thumbsucking is a recurring problem. One woman asks what can be done to get her 18-month-old granddaughter to stop sucking her thumb. A certain amount of thumbsucking is to be expected in the first year or two of life. Such deterrents as spanking, scolding, tying the hands and painting the thumb with evil-tasting substances do more harm than good. A happy child who is well-loved, and knows it, will outgrow the habit before reaching school age. Meanwhile, the child's thumb won't dissolve and she can't swallow it so why not relax and enjoy her few remaining months of babyhood?

A different problem is presented by the mother who writes that her son, 11, still sucks his thumb. On the left side of his mouth, just below his lip, he had developed several warts. This mother wonders whether the warts are caused by thumbsucking and what to do to break the habit.

Since warts are caused by virus, they have no relationship to the thumbsucking. Thumbsucking at any age is caused by a feeling of insecurity. It is significant that this mother asked how she could stop her son's habit instead of how he could stop it. This leads me to assume that she has in general been over-protective of her son and has not allowed him to grow up. In itself the habit is harmless, but sooner or later this boy is going to have to start finding for himself and making his own decisions. Having neglected to train him along this line, I believe this mother, with her child, should consult a child psychologist.

Q—My son, 3½, had a mild attack of scarlet fever. How does this disease start? What are the symptoms? Are there any serious complications?

A—Scarlet fever usually starts with a sore throat, followed by fever, vomiting and a generalized rash. The complications in the acute stage include rheumatic heart disease, kidney infection, arthritis, middle ear infection and pneumonia.

Q—My 16-month-old daughter catches a lot of colds. Should she take cod liver oil or vitamin C?

A—All children should get vitamin C and D in their diet. Additional amounts will not prevent colds. Many children who seem to get more than their fair share of colds are suffering from an allergy.

True Story Lost for Lack of Historian

The public debates the relative greatness of famous men but writers are prone to examine the Boswells who set up the record.

Fame depends not only upon a good reporter but also the mechanical means of getting the report widely distributed.

My favorite illustration is the difference in degrees of fame won by Martin Luther, 1483-1546, world renowned as the founder of Protestantism; and Girolamo Savonarola, 1452-1498, who preceded Luther by a generation in his revolt against the established church — but who was excommunicated and hanged in virtual obscurity because his message never got through to the world at large.

Between the two men's lifetimes Johannes Gutenberg, 1397-1468, invented moveable type. Savonarola had to depend on perishable word-of-mouth reports and a few hand-written records by monks sympathetic to the tragic rebel — while Luther, coming along a generation later, had the advantage of printed reports to carry his message throughout the world.

I thought about this Saturday while reading our Associated Press dispatch from Yermo, Calif., reporting that archaeologists digging in the Mojave desert have come up with evidence that this may have been the birthplace of the earliest man known to the Western hemisphere.

Or the earliest men in the history of the world, for that matter. As history tells it civilization began in Asia Minor — because Asia Minor happened to have the Boswells — and the record.

But the Western world had none — and so archaeologists digging in the Mojave desert came up with evidence that may eventually challenge and correct the history of Man which has stood unchanged for thousands of years.

Youth Caught Here in a Stolen Car

City Police apprehended a 16-year-old Fouke, Ark. youth in a stolen car and investigated a rash of wrecks here over the weekend. The Fouke youth was listed as Gene Mayton. He was also involved in the burglary of a store at Fouke, Officers Milam and Clark said. He will be released to Miller County officials.

Cars owned by Wade Morris and Freddie Mack collided on North Hazel Sunday night and Officers Shirley and Neal charged Mack with driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident, resisting arrest and failure to have a driver's license.

Saturday vehicles owned by H. R. Hunt, Palmos and Ari Fincher, Hope, brushed on a hospital parking lot. Damage was very minor said Officers Shirley and Neal.

Sunday cars driven by Clarence L. Barnes and Clovis G. Little collided with some damage resulting. It was investigated by Officers Johnson and Brown.

Debate More Vigorous at a Distance

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rival Democrats Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy, more vigorous debaters at a distance than face-to-face, staged their final search for votes today in California's climactic presidential primary.

Kennedy ranked as the favorite in a three-sided race for 174 nominating votes at the Democratic National Convention — and for the political propulsion of an endorsement from the nation's most populous state.

The third entry: An uncommitted slate of delegates headed by Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch. That line on the Democratic ballot is as close as a Californian can come to voting for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, for write-in votes are not permitted.

The whole show was on the Democratic side, Gov. Ronald Reagan, cast as a favorite son, was alone on the Republican ballot, which will award him 86 GOP convention votes.

Two-thirds of the more than 7.9 million voters in California were expected to cast ballots. The latest State Poll published today by the Los Angeles Times gave this result of a poll Saturday.

Finds That Science Can Now Weigh the Tongue of Small Fly

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Dieters who glory in every fraction of ounce or pound they lose will be pleased to know that science now has a scale so accurate it can weigh one-millionth of a fly's tongue — which is a trillionth of a gram. Crime in Washington Has Increased 24 Per Cent in Just One Year

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has asked Congress for 1,000 additional policemen for the nation's capital where crime has increased 24.5 per cent in 12 months and tourist visits have declined sharply.

Crime has mounted at the same time in some other major U.S. cities and the problems of dealing with it are basically much the same throughout the country.

But this city's role as a world capital and tourist mecca spotlights the Washington situation more intensely.

Johnson repeatedly has said he wants the city to be the nation's pride.

In March he sent a special message to Congress asking for a redoubled attack on crime here, saying: "Crime today is the first problem in the nation's first city."

Demonstrations here have brought a measure of uncertainty over what might happen. Some 2,000 participants of the Poor People's Campaign have

Immunity of Cities in Suits Lifted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today struck down the immunity previously enjoyed by municipalities from damages caused by negligence of city employees.

The object of the opinion, written by William M. Moorhead of Stuttgart, serving as a special justice, was the case of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Parrish who tried to sue the City of Little Rock and Ollie W. Pitts for damages suffered by Mrs. Parrish when her car was struck by a city garbage truck.

Circuit Court had ruled in favor of the city in the case. Chief Justice Carleton Harris and Associate Justice John Fogleman dissented from the opinion. Associate Justice Fred Jones disqualified himself.

Moorhead pointed out that liability insurance is now available for cities and it was not available when immunity was first granted.

"It should also be realized that most citizens and more particularly legislators, will normally think of themselves as being on the side of government rather than opposed to it," Moorhead wrote. "They are thus more likely to cling to the 'pleasant and appealing advantage' of immunity from liability for injury suffered at the hands of their public servants and employees."

"No case of liability for personal injury by a municipality is found in the Arkansas reports," Moorhead said. "In Arkansas, the immunity of the municipality in the tort field is, in practice, complete at present."

Moorhead said the state has established the state Claims Commission for paying off people who are injured by the state. He also said that state employees have similar rights of private employees under the workman's compensation laws.

"Thus we see that the basic injustice of the rule of tort immunity where it has come to the attention of the legislature has met with dissatisfaction."

Tropical Storm Heads to Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tropical storm Abby, developed into a hurricane shortly before noon today and aimed her torrential rains and screaming winds at west Florida's heavily populated Tampa Bay area.

"We are now calling the storm a hurricane," said forecaster Neil Frank at the National Hurricane Center in Miami. "Her top winds are reaching 75 miles per hour in gusts and the storm should reach the Tampa Bay area by late afternoon."

At noon, Abby was centered 170 miles south-southwest of Tampa at Latitude 25.6 north and Longitude 83.3 west. The storm was moving northward at about 15 miles an hour.

The National Hurricane Center warned of indications the storm would build its 50-mile-an-hour winds to full hurricane force — more than 74 m.p.h. — as it intensified over the open waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

The U.S. Weather Bureau urged Floridians to stay "ready for quick action."

Several Are Injured But Not Seriously

Early last night on Highway 29 south a car and a pickup driven by Benny J. Sanders, Murfreesboro and William L. King, Lewisville, collided and several persons sustained cuts and bruises but none of a critical nature.

State Policeman Wallace Martin said Sanders suffered painful eye damage and three passengers in the car with him had cuts and bruises. King also was injured and two passengers riding with him sustained injuries.

About 8:30 last night north of Hope on Highway No. 4 a car driven by Arthur L. Black, slaved another driven by a Mr. Cutchall of Hope. There was minor damage. State Trooper Martin charged Black with driving while intoxicated and driving while his license was suspended.

Fire Damages Stock Room

The stock room at Wylie Glass & Salvage yard was badly damaged by fire Sunday about 2:30 p.m.

U.S. Seeking Way to Form Compromise

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — U.S. officials are studying the possibility of a compromise with North Vietnam over broadening the scope of the Paris peace talks in spite of the deadlock on de-escalating the Vietnam war.

The clue lies in a statement published two days ago in the newspaper Nhan Dan, mouthpiece of the North Vietnamese Communist party. Instead of saying the United States must agree to halt immediately all attacks on North Vietnamese territory, it says the United States "must first of all clearly acknowledge its responsibility to put a definitive and unconditional end" to the attacks.

Members of the American delegation in the Paris conference are frankly not quite sure what this means but are slightly optimistic. They hope for clarification in the next session or two with the North Vietnam delegation. Ambassadors W. Averell Harriman and Xuan Thuy and their advisers will meet again Wednesday.

Thuy, meanwhile is expected to get the latest thoughts of the ruling group in Hanoi from one of its top members, Le Duc Tho, who was dispatched to Paris.

Tho, a Communist theoretician, will serve here as a "special counselor" to Thuy. While he was stopping over in Moscow Sunday, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda endorsed the peace talks anew and restated its support for North Vietnam's position. Pravda made this statement:

"It seems clear there are many concrete problems which must be discussed but there is only one question (ending the U.S. attacks on the North) which must be regulated at first in the present talks."

The word "regulated" caught the attention of experts here. It seemed much softer than others which might have been used, such as "decided" or "settled."

U.S. authorities were faced once more with a question of interpretation which becomes significant because of the failure of the discussions here over several weeks to shed any new light on any of the problems and issues involved in Vietnam peace making.

"The Communists don't use words lightly in a situation like this," one diplomat said. "And obviously Le Duc Tho isn't coming all this distance just for the

Top Vietnam Officials Are Killed

By GEORGE ESER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command launched a full-scale investigation today into the misfiring of a rocket by an American helicopter gunship that killed six key South Vietnamese officials Sunday and seemed likely to place new strains on U.S.-Vietnamese relations.

American officials were visibly shaken and appeared concerned about repercussions from the incident. An editorial, anti-American in tone, appeared in the Saigon Daily News, under the heading, "An Accident Too Many."

As the latest wave of fighting in the capital area went into its 10th day, South Vietnamese military headquarters reported that 600 to 800 fresh Viet Cong troops had slipped into the northern suburb of Gia Dinh, 2½ miles from the center of Saigon.

This coincided with an allied communique stating that 1,019 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed in and around the capital during the week ending last Saturday. South Vietnamese troops, who were said to have done most of the fighting, reported their own casualties as light. U.S. forces listed six Americans killed and 32 wounded for the period.

Says Teachers Can Speak on Public Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — A teacher may not be fired for speaking out on public issues in the absence of "proof of false statements knowingly or recklessly made by him," the Supreme Court ruled 8 to 1 today.

The decision reversed courts in Illinois which had approved the dismissal of Marvin L. Pickering, a high school science teacher who wrote a letter to the Lockport Herald in 1964 saying the school board was "trying to push tax-supported athletics down our throats."

Justice Thurgood Marshall, announcing the ruling said "it cannot be gainsaid that the state has interests as an employer in regulating the speech of its employees that differ significantly from those it possesses in connection with regulation of the speech of the citizenry in general."

However, the court said through Marshall, even though Pickering made "erroneous public statements" about the amount of money being spent on athletics, his letter evidently neither impeded his classroom performance nor interfered with operation of the schools generally.

In these circumstances, Marshall said, his "exercise of his right to speak on issues of public importance may not furnish the basis for his dismissal from public employment."

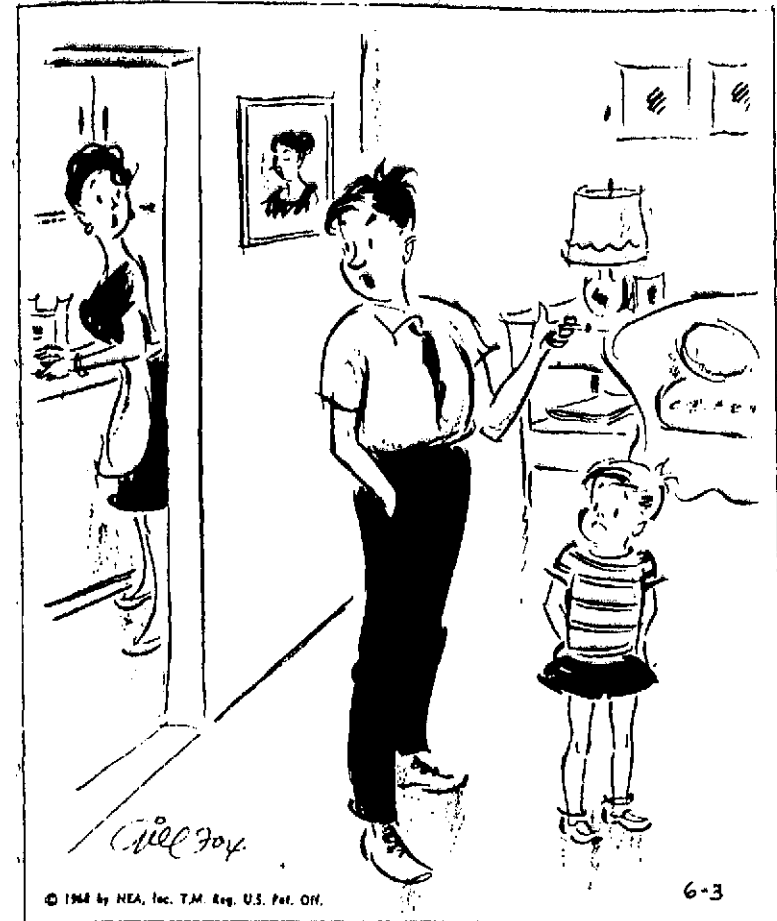

Justice Byron R. White, in a separate opinion, partly agreed with the majority and disagreed.

Franklin D. Fox, 20, of El Dorado, a student at Southern Methodist University at Dallas, was killed early Saturday in a car-train collision at a Missouri Pacific Railway crossing on a county road near Fulton. He was alone.

Highlights of McCarthy, Kennedy Debate

NEW YORK (AP) — Following are highlights of the discussion Saturday night in San Francisco between Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy on ABC radio and television:

Q. What would you do to stop violence and riots in this country?

Kennedy: "I would help police departments through funds ... I have gone into the ghettos ... and said we can't solve these problems overnight ... I think we have to provide jobs with the government being the employer as a last resort and then bringing the private sector in in a major way ... doing away as much as possible with the welfare system ... and getting people jobs by giving the private sector tax incentives and tax credits."

McCarthy: "I think I am in general agreement ... there ought to be federal money given to state and local authorities ... that the use of either federal troops or national guards should be a very reserved use ... and what we have to do is to begin to build a million houses a year for the low-income people. Unless we do that ... no matter how many police we have ... there will be protests, there will be some violence."

Q. If you were president, what would you do in Vietnam?

McCarthy: "I would be de-escalating the war in Vietnam and drawing back from some of our advanced positions while still holding strength ... I would not have the secretary of state making statements about how we would have no coalition government to come out of the conference in Paris ... I'm not particularly concerned whether it is called a coalition or fusion ... and we have to recognize that that government will include the National Liberation Front."

Kennedy: "I'd pursue the negotiations in Paris. At the same time I'd make it quite clear that we would expect Saigon ... to begin their own negotiations with the National Liberation Front. I would be opposed to what I understand Sen. McCarthy's position is of forcing a coalition government on the government of Saigon, a coalition with the Communists even before we begin the negotiations ... that should be determined by the negotiators, and particularly by those people of South Vietnam."

"I would demand privately and publicly an end to the corruption that exists in Vietnam ... I would make it clear as we went along that the South Vietnamese are going to carry more and more of the burden of conflict."

McCarthy: "I didn't say I was going to force a coalition government on the South Vietnamese. I said we should make clear we are willing to accept that. If the South Vietnamese want to continue to fight, work

Indecision Cost Russia in the War

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new U.S. Army study suggests excessive caution and indecision cost the Soviets a chance to reach the Rhine River—and thus control of most of Germany—in the last months of World War II.

Had the Soviets succeeded in reaching the Rhine before the Allies crossed that river, they would have been in position to have menaced France and the low countries, and to have controlled virtually all of Germany instead of settling for a division of control with the Allies.

This, in turn, might have altered the whole shape and fate of postwar Europe.

These conclusions are implicit in the Army's account of the late stages of the Soviet-German war.

That account, titled "Stalingrad to Berlin", was researched out their own negotiations, that's well and good.

Q. What about tax increases—the President has made a very strong appeal for a 10 per cent surcharge.

and written by Army historian Earl F. Ziemke. He drew on captured German documents and on Soviet military writings.

According to this study, the Soviet high command staff in the late fall of 1944 planned a winter offensive that was to have ended the war in about 45 days.

The offensive began Jan. 12, 1945, and within two weeks Soviet units were closing up to the Oder River.

But on Feb. 17, 1945, Ziemke wrote, the Soviet staff "suddenly scrapped the whole original plan" and ordered Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov and other field leaders to clean up the flanks of the advancing Soviet armies.

This, in the view of U.S. Army historians, wasted almost six weeks.

"By the end of the third week in February the great Soviet 1945 winter offensive had come to a dead halt," the study said. "Caution was in the air."

The Army study noted that the Soviet high command's decision coincided with two small German counterattacks—one aimed at Stargard east of Berlin and the other on the Hron River in Hungary.

It is suggested the counterattacks accomplished nothing for the Germans militarily, but apparently intensified caution among Soviet staff officers.

"The abortive Stargard operation brought the Germans a substantial, unexpected, and unearned dividend of time that ... may have profoundly affected Germany's future," the study said.

"In the fit of caution that took hold in mid-February" the study said, the Soviet high command "dismantled its operation for an advance to Berlin and beyond into central Germany and committed its main forces in marginal, wholly unspectacular clearing operations on the flanks in Pomerania and Silesia."

"No doubt, observing that the Allies were still west of the line ... the Soviet command concluded it had time enough."

"This could have provided a rational for cleaning out the flanks in anticipation of a deeper thrust into Germany than originally intended and, meanwhile, letting the Allies bleed themselves out."

But, the study said, the sequence of events indicates "caution and a consequent inability to decide upon a clean-cut, direct solution to the final strategic problem also weighed heavily."

They recalled that the British and American armies on the German border were not even ready to strike toward the Rhine before then. The Allies did not cross that key river until the end of the first week in March.

In the final stages of the European war, which ended May 8, 1945, the Soviet and allied forces both drove through Germany from opposite directions and finally agreed on a division of occupied territory along the line of the Elbe and Mulde Rivers.

This subsequently led to the two Germanys, a Communist East and non-Communist West.

1968 LINCOLN CONTINENTAL

It takes a fine-car connoisseur to recognize the vintage

One reason is, Continental produces a vintage motorcar every year. Continental, each successive year, boasts the same dedication to engineering perfection, the same uncompromising attention to detail, the same credo of unmatched craftsmanship that has earned for Continental the right to be called "America's most distinguished motorcar."

Another reason is, Continental designers and engineers don't tear the car down and begin anew each year. They start with the finest car made in America and improve it, thus making every Continental purchase an investment of lasting value.

Improvements for 1968 include wraparound parking lights and taillights, new instrument panel, a smoother-shifting transmission, new interiors, and a new, more formal roof line for the Coupé.

Couple these improvements with Continental's timeless, classic design and the peerless quality of Continental's ride and performance and you have yet another vintage year for fine-car connoisseurs to savor.

Let us arrange a personal demonstration for you, during which you may become acquainted with the pleasure and prestige awaiting you behind the wheel of the 1968 Lincoln Continental.

Agricultural Extension Service Plan No. 597605, available at your County Extension Office.

THREE BEDROOM HOUSE

Here is a moderately sized three bedroom house plan with long, low appearance which could possibly meet your needs. The carport entrance is on the end of the house with outside storage providing easy access to both the front door and the door leading to the kitchen.

The U-shaped kitchen provides adequate space for meal preparation with a convenient dining area. The utility room is provided adjacent to the back entrance. This plan provides an alternate bath and utility arrangement, which ever best meets your individual needs.

Three moderately sized bedrooms with ample storage are provided.

The traffic pattern isolates the formal living area, sleeping area and the utility area. This compact arrangement encloses 1440 square feet of heating area. This plan utilizes a concrete slab floor with a low pitched roof in order to provide a low silhouette. By utilizing perimeter insulation the concrete floor can be warm and dry.

Working drawings of this plan can be obtained from the Hempstead County Agricultural Extension Office free of charge by requesting a copy of Plan No. 597605.

TV NOTEBOOK

Marlo Thomas

By JOAN CROSBY
NEA Entertainment Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Marlo Thomas was in New York searching for a dozen dining room chairs and catching up on the theater, which is why the talk got around to "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," a fine play about a girls' school and which is why Marlo was discussing girls' schools.

"It's a nice way to grow up," she said. "You're not wearing false eyelashes at 14. You spend all week in jumpers and blazers and saddle shoes, wearing no make-up. Then the weekend comes and you can dress up and have fun. You graduate at 16 and have the rest of your life to be involved."

Marlo, as you can deduce, is a sensible young lady. She's delighted to talk about her ABC-TV series, "That Girl," and her reaction to New York, and her search for furniture for her new home. But she does not like talking about herself. Marlo doesn't really have to talk specifically about herself, because her general conversation reveals her to be a young lady who came from a happy home, grew up with values and who knows there are more things in life than herself and her career.

"I'm very optimistic," she says. "My father always called me Scarlett O'Hara, because, like her, I always believe tomorrow will be a better day. I also believe you make your own happiness or misery. No one is damned to a life of all misery. But you can't be 100 per cent happy either. Our family motto has always been 'Blessed is he who knows why he was born.' My father says it was on his Lebanese crest—or maybe it was printed on the back of a camel. Anyway, it is something that gives me a purpose, and even if I don't attain it, I maintain the purpose. I love people with dreams. If someone tells me he'll build the highest building in the world, I'll do anything I can to help him. The thing that makes me cry is someone who can't communicate."

Larry Blyden is as busy as an actor is allowed to be at the moment. He is appearing on Broadway in the hit, "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running." He is host of the popular NBC-TV daytime show, Personality. And, as a member of the Actors Equity negotiating committee, he has been spending his few free hours trying to prevent an actors' strike which would shut down the Broadway theater.

The attitude of the producers has Larry, generally a mild-mannered, very pleasant gentleman, quite angry. "They are arbitrary, inflexible and stubborn," he says. "Whenever we ask for something, they say our demands are outrageous. I keep saying, 'O.K., then tell me what is outrageous.'"

The activity has Larry a bit tired. "Just this morning, as I was complaining that I seemed to need more sleep than I used to, my housekeeper said, 'You're getting older, you know.' The other day my children came to see the play. After, as I was washing out the gray make-up I use in my hair, my son said, 'Hey, dad, you didn't wash out some of the original gray.'"

Larry is very happy doing Personality and says he will do another nighttime TV series, "only over my dead body." He also believes Personality is good enough to be on the nighttime schedule. "But we would tape it in the daytime," he smiles. "Nighttime series TV is the most stultifying, uninspired, boring work I know. The only reason to do one is so you never have to do one again."

Death Penalty Overturned by Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death sentence cannot be imposed by a jury from which persons with conscientious or religious scruples against capital punishment were automatically excluded, the Supreme Court ruled 5 to 4 today.

"No defendant can constitutionally be put to death at the hands of a tribunal so selected," Justice Potter Stewart said for the divided court.

"Whatever else might be said of capital punishment, it is at least clear that its imposition by a hanging jury cannot be squared with the Constitution," he added.

Ruling in an Illinois case, the majority found the state "stacked the deck" against William C. Witherspoon when he was sentenced to death by a jury from which 39 veniremen were excluded "without any effort to find out whether their scruples would invariably compel them to vote against capital punishment."

One of the dissenters, Hugo L. Black, said from the bench that the majority "is making new law."

Negotiations in the Steel Talks Start

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators for the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers of America, after weekend contract settlements with the major aluminum companies, today open contract talks covering about 480,000 employees of the 11 major steel producers in the most optimistic atmosphere in years.

The negotiations are between the 1.2 million-member union and the Coordinating Committee of Steel Companies, representing the 11 steel producers.

The negotiations starting today can set a pattern for members of the union not involved in the present talks.

For the first time, preliminary talks were held on local issues, and many were settled in six weeks of talks.

The Steelworkers' 33-man executive board, headed by union President I.W. Abel, met Sunday to plan strategy. Following that session, the union's 200-member negotiating advisory committee met. And aide of Abel said the committee meeting involved procedures, and there was no public announcement of what went on.

The basic steel industry has not had a major strike since a 116-day walkout in 1959. The White House, however, has intervened several times in contract talks.

The current 35-month contract, which expires Aug. 1, was agreed upon after President Johnson intervened in 1965.

Although the United Steelworkers had signed a new three-year pact covering half of the nation's aluminum workers, the two aluminum giants—Alcoa and Reynolds—were struck during the weekend by the AFL-CIO Aluminum Workers union. Alcoa—the Aluminum Co. of America—reported that half its capacity was halted. It is the nation's largest aluminum producer.

Humphrey Going After Student Vote

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark9 (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, wrestling with Sens. Eugene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy for the Democratic presidential nomination, associated himself with youth at the 94th University of Arkansas commencement Saturday.

Humphrey, apparently seeking the college and university student appeal enjoyed by McCarthy and Kennedy, spoke of a youth's bill of rights, which he said meant to him:

"The right to vote at age 18; a larger participation in various institutions, including universities; doing whatever is required to assure every young American the right to a college education and providing larger opportunities to serve the community."

The vice president, who has been accused by Kennedy as being the voice of the past, told the 950 graduates, "Others may speak of the generation gap." "I don't," he said. "As far as I am concerned youth is not a period of life but an attitude of mind. All of us—young and old and in between—are as old as our dreams and as young as our hopes."

Although supporting his youth's bill of rights, Humphrey lashed at those who would use violence, obscenity and storm trooper tactics to obscure and disrupt the purposes of university education.

"The law of the jungle and the school of law cannot coexist," Humphrey said. "Fascist, Communist, racist, cross-burners, flag burners—all of them share a basic intolerance for the views of other individuals."

Lacking in Humphrey's speech was reference to the Vietnam war, which is associated with the Johnson administration.

However, when he arrived at the Fayetteville airport prior to his address, most of the signs in the crowd of 1,500 persons were in support of McCarthy—an opponent of the administration's war policy.

Humphrey took note of the signs right away and expressed appreciation that Arkansans thought so well of "two Minnesota boys."

Also on hand to greet Humphrey were Sen. J. William Fulbright, a leading critic of the administration, and Sen. L. McClellan.

Fulbright and Humphrey exchanged a warm handshake but the junior senator cautioned newsmen not to interpret it as an endorsement.

Fulbright said he had his own campaign to run and that he didn't think it wise to be getting into a controversy between other candidates on the national scene.

A picket planned by a group called Concerned Citizens Against Vietnam failed to materialize. The group also said it planned to walk out when Humphrey received his honorary degree but only Dr. Jeffrey G. Shapiro, a university faculty member, reportedly did.

By Moslem law, a man has the right to marry four wives, but this right is seldom exercised at present.

Local News Lacking, Says the FCC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two members of the Federal Communications Commission say most of the nation's 7,500 radio and television stations inadequately explain local events, and charge the other five FCC members aren't working to improve the situation.

Wants Judge's Wife Named to His Post

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller has been asked to appoint Mrs. Grover Brockman Sr. as Lincoln County judge to replace her husband, who has been declared incapacitated due to illness.

Circuit Judge Henry W. Smith of Pine Bluff said Saturday that Brockman was declared incapacitated on the basis of a physician's report. Brockman suffers from emphysema and is a patient at Jefferson Hospital at Pine Bluff.

Smith said the governor is required to appoint a successor to hold office until Brockman recovers.

Petitions from about 500 persons and six of the nine members of the Lincoln County Republican Screening Committee have asked Rockefeller to name the judge's wife as his successor.

Cox and Nicholas Johnson said if news and public affairs programming is not improved, there will no longer be a need for FCC policy decision to protect "local stations against a transformation of the broadcasting system."

They said the FCC does this by encouraging the growth of small, local UHF television stations, regulating cable television and refusing to let big radio stations increase power beyond 50,000 watts so they can be heard at greater distances.

But despite these efforts, Cox and Johnson said, "the concept of local service is a myth."

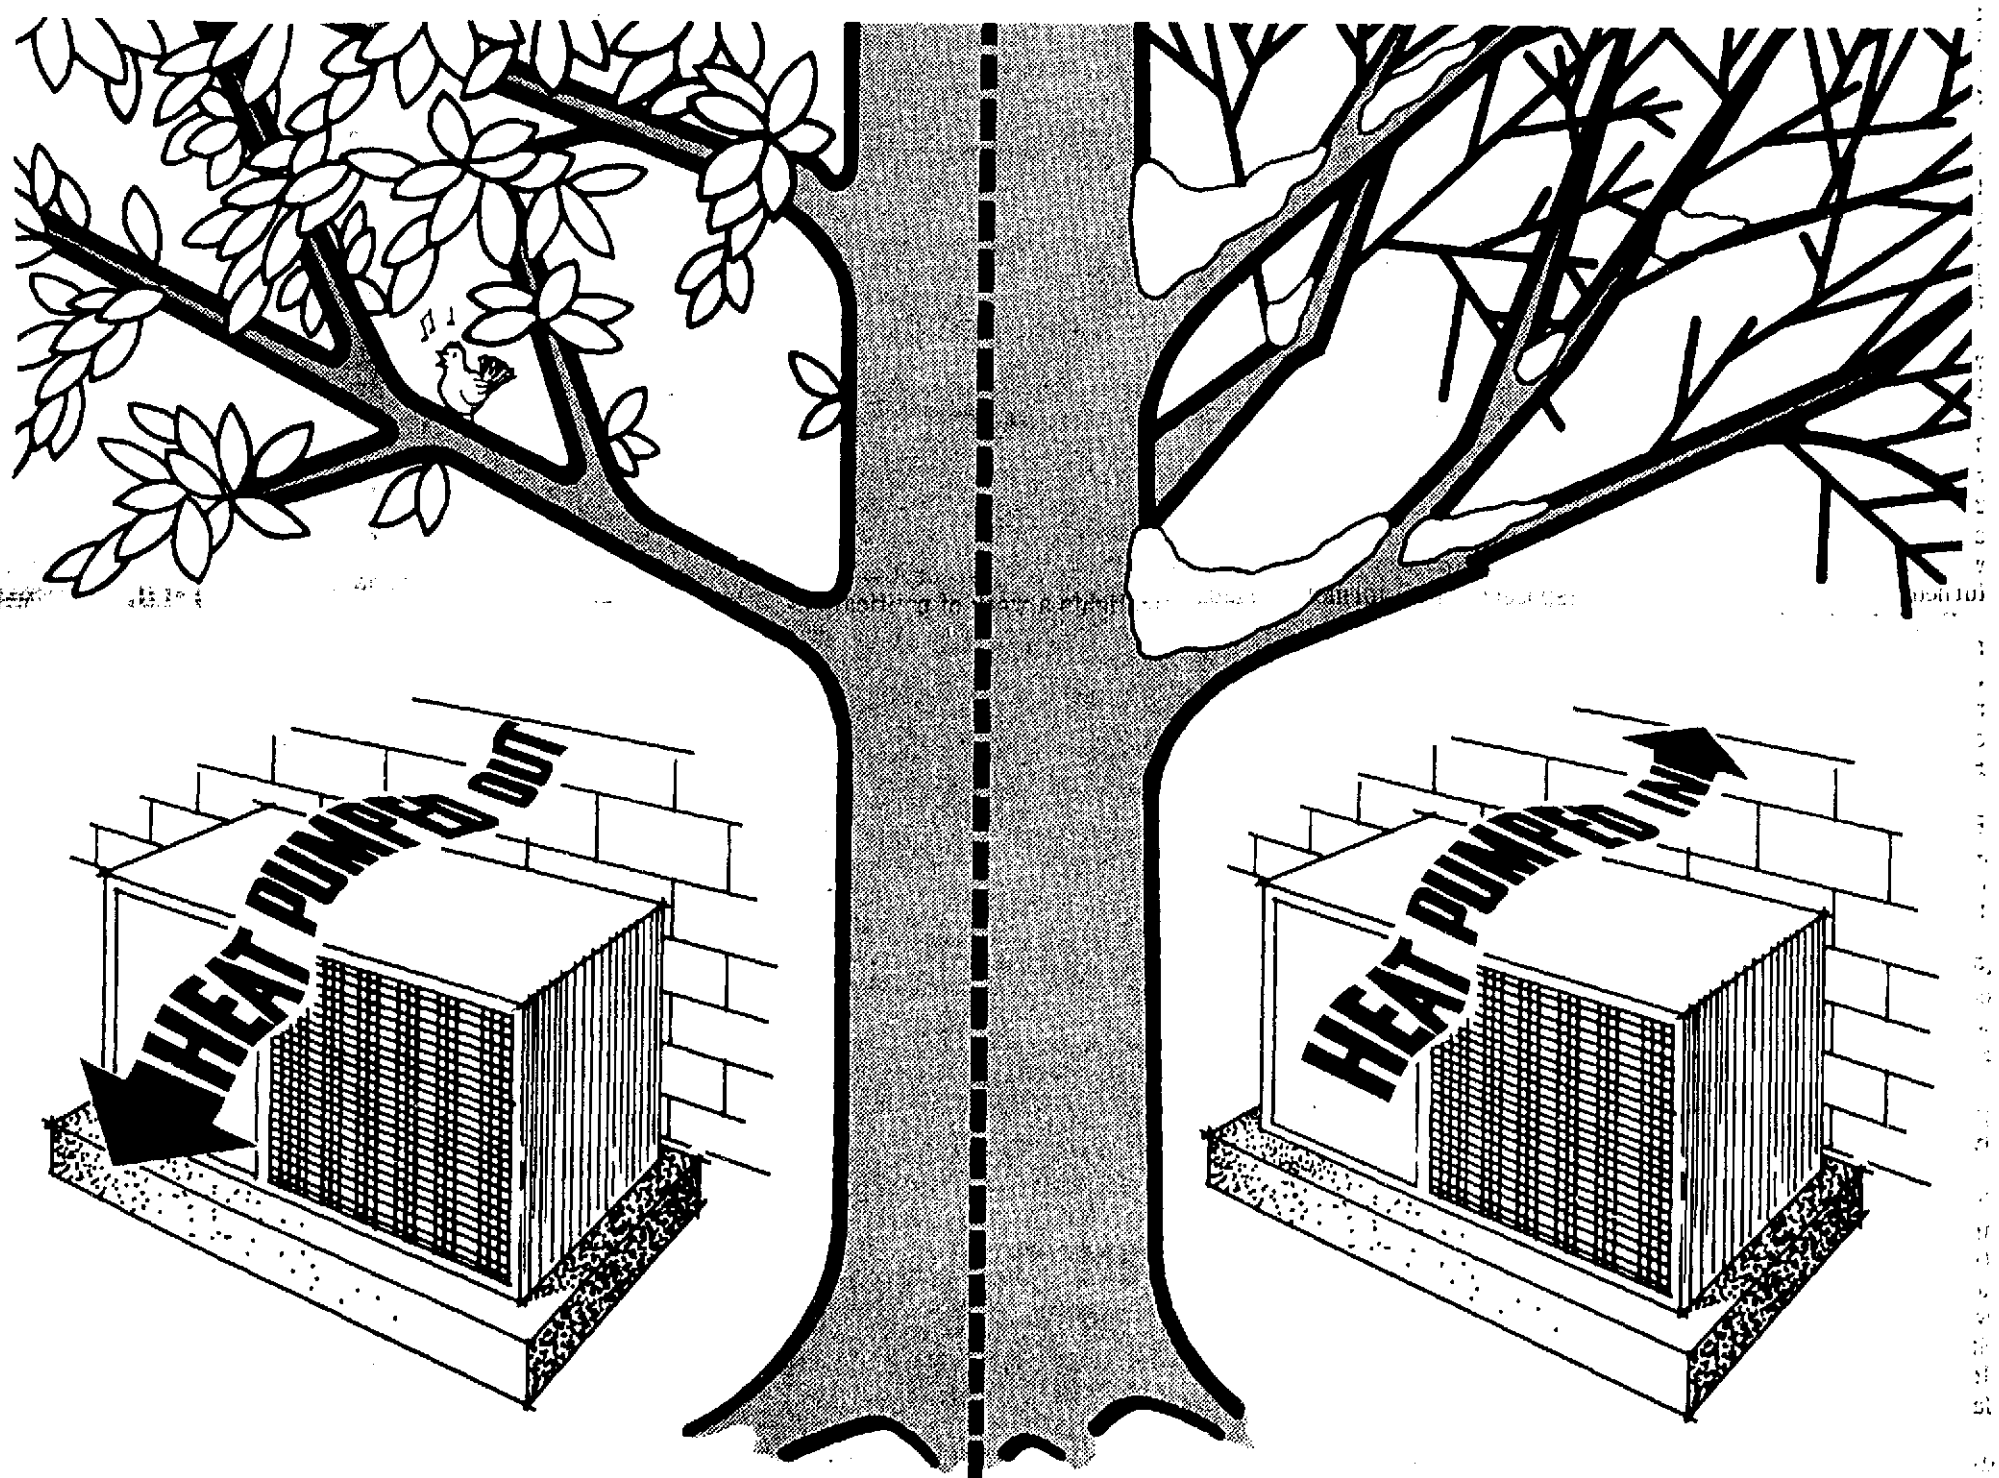

Their comments were in a report released during the weekend of a three-month study of Oklahoma radio and television stations. They said Oklahoma was chosen for convenience, and that the broadcast situation there is typical of the nationwide pattern regarding local service.

The two commissioners said that with few exceptions, stations "provide literally no programming that can meaningfully be described as local expression."

"They provide very little that can be tailored to specific needs of their individual communities."

This comes at a time when "America's greatest needs are local needs," Cox and Johnson said.

"Virtually every city in this country has found itself engulfed by incipient rebellion" and "the future of this country hinges on the ability of individual cities to create communication where it has never existed. 'Only the local media can serve that need.'"

12 Persons Killed Over the Holiday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Twelve persons died violent deaths in Arkansas during the Memorial Day holiday weekend—nine in traffic accidents and three drownings.

The Associated Press toll of holiday deaths began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ended at midnight Sunday.

John E. Stone, 47, of Mt. Vernon in Faulkner County, was killed Sunday night when his car plunged over an embankment just off Arkansas 5 in the El Paso community in White County. El Paso is located about 20 miles east of Conway.

Thomas Edgar Phillips, 46, of West Memphis, was apparently the victim of a hit-and-run accident Sunday. State Police said the man's body was found just off U. S. 70 about 2.6 miles west of West Memphis.

Eugene Acey, 5, of Hamburg was killed Saturday night when the car in which he was riding overturned in Hamburg. City Police in Hamburg said the car, driven by Shirley Graham, 26 of Hamburg, was going at a high rate of speed when it went out of control and overturned.

Franklin D. Fox, 20, of El Dorado, was killed Saturday when his car was struck by a passenger train at a crossing on U.S. 67 two miles north of Fulton in Hempstead County.

John Edward Shankle of Bono was killed Saturday when a freight train rammed into his car at a crossing near Bono Hill in Craighead County.

Mrs. Jessie May Price, 45, of Sheridan was killed in a two-car collision about nine miles west of Pine Bluff on U.S. 270 Friday.

Waters L. Bush, 61, of Higginson was killed Friday in a two-car accident in McCrory.

Two persons were killed Thursday when a portable drilling rig broke loose from a truck at Helena and smashed into a sports car. The victims were Richard A. Heaton, 19, of State College, Pa., and Robert R. Brouillette, 19, of Cumberland, R.I.

Robert Smith, 15, of Manila drowned Thursday in Big Lake near Manila.

Sam Weatherby, 19, of Wrightsville drowned Saturday while swimming with several other youths in a high water slough on the Arkansas River near Little Rock.

Timothy L. Stevenson, 10, of near Little Rock, son of Rev. and Mrs. Fred Stevenson, drowned Sunday afternoon at Lake Norrell in Saline County.

Crank Thinks State Should Increase Taxes

BENTONVILLE, Ark. (AP) —Rep. Marion Crank, a Democratic candidate for governor, told about 600 persons at a Democratic party rally Saturday night that the state should increase taxes.

Crank and three other gubernatorial candidates appeared at the rally along with Sen. J. William Fulbright and Hardy Croxon, a candidate for Congress.

The other gubernatorial candidates attending were Bruce Bennett, Ted Boswell and Frank Whitbeck.

Whitbeck said that if the past 18 months was an indication of the ability of Republicans then "it looks like the Democrats are in and the Republicans are hell-bent on a no win policy."

Bennett said that if he were elected the Arkansians would "see the greatest exodus of computer experts and self-styled experts." He charged that Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller had imported "the most expensive group of computer oriented talent" ever brought into the state.

Boswell made a plea for the inclusion of young Democrats in the power structure, but said they may "find it necessary to barge in and acquire by seizure what properly belongs to them in the normal course of Democratic procedure."

"It will be my purpose to help provide the necessary leadership for these forces of a neglected generation to rightfully gain what they have been wrongfully denied," Boswell said.

Cites Hopeless Situation at Prison

By PETE YOUNG
Associated Press Writer
TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP)—The assistant prison superintendent in charge of Tucker Prison Farm said Sunday that he resigned because of pressure and the "hopeless" situation the state prison system faces.

The resignation of Robert A. Van Winkle brought an end to the flamboyant style of reform espoused by a former Prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton, who was fired by the state Board of Correction in February.

However, the board and members of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's administration have insisted that prison reform in Arkansas didn't leave with Murton, the outspoken penologist who came under almost constant criticism from many legislators and other state officials.

The resignation of Van Winkle was announced Saturday by Prison Supt. Victor O. Urban—another Murton recruit. Van Winkle was recognized as a Murton man but he wasn't the constant newsmaker that Murton was.

Van Winkle preferred to limit his remarks in an interview Sunday, he said, because "it's not a good time to say anything."

"I have no desire to be asked to get off the premises in 15 minutes," he said, in reference to how rapidly the Board of Correction asked Murton to vacate when he was fired.

But what apparently gripped Van Winkle and brought him to the final decision to quit was the frustration of not being able to say anything about prison conditions.

"It's getting back to the same old situation and getting worse every week," Van Winkle said, referring to the conditions of near starvation and cruelty alleged in a State Police report 17 months ago.

"There is so little to work with," he said. "You can't provide a proper diet—you keep running out of sugar to make bread, canned milk, cheese, baloney—everything."

Van Winkle was asked if he was forced to resign.

"This was a mutual thing between me and the board," he said. "You can't function without a strong commissioner. The board thought I was a Murton man and probably never felt they could trust me."

"I'm disappointed I'm not going to see the crops come in," he said. "It's going to be a good crop—but only because the inmates felt they were part of the program."

"I'm not glad to be leaving but I'm frustrated with the situation. My resignation won't help the situation but it's not the end of the world for me or the prison."

He said it was a frustrating situation for his wife, also.

"There were rebuffs outside such as when she was shopping some people would tell her the strap is the only answer to prison reform," he said. "She has the same attachment toward some of the inmates as I do. Some seem like sons."

"But there are a lot of wonderful people in Arkansas," he said.

The 41-year-old Van Winkle said he plans to return to Alaska where he formerly was a jail superintendent. He said he wasn't sure what he would do when he returned.

As for parting sentiments, Van Winkle said, "If the legislators were as gentlemanly as the inmates here, there would be a little difference in their conduct and attitude."

He was referring to conduct of the General Assembly during the May special legislative session and their refusal to appropriate the necessary funds the Rockefeller administration said were needed for prison reform.

Kennedy Is Undecided If He Loses

WASHINGTON (AP) — A California confrontation that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy indicates could decide the fate of his Democratic presidential bid highlights a week of political activity including five state primaries.

Kennedy—following a nationally televised exchange with rival Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy on Vietnam, slums and other issues—said Sunday he has not decided what he would do if he loses the California primary Tuesday because he expects to win.

"But obviously," he said, "I have to look at the results of California very, very carefully."

Kennedy said he and McCarthy should join in a common cause against Johnson administration policy after California—and indicated his decision on staying in the race would be dictated by how he believes he could best further that cause.

"This struggle really must be with Vice President (Hubert H.) Humphrey," Kennedy said. "He represents the course that we have been following over the period of the last several years in the administration."

Kennedy was interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

In other primaries Tuesday: —South Dakota Democrats decide whether Kennedy, Humphrey or McCarthy will control the state's 26-member national convention delegation, Richard M. Nixon is unopposed on the Republican ballot.

—New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes has said McCarthy could win up to 20 of that state's 82 Democratic delegates, Sen. Clifford Case is a favorite-son candidate to head 40 unpledged Republican delegates.

—Incumbent Montana Gov. Tim M. Babcock is challenged by Lt. Gov. Ted James for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, incumbent Democratic Rep. Arnold Olsen, seeking nomination for a fifth term, is challenged by Supt. of Public Instruction Harriet Miller.

—Alabama Rep. Armistead Selden and former Lt. Gov. James Allen face a runoff for the Democratic nomination for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala.

In California, McCarthy and Kennedy—and state Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch who heads an unpledged slate—are competing for 174 delegate votes in a winner-take-all contest.

Kennedy was the favorite but experienced observers were saying the primary could go either way, and some were pointing to the possibility that Lynch could beat both McCarthy and Kennedy.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan, as a favorite son, is unopposed on the Republican ballot for 86 convention votes.

Democratic candidate Humphrey, meanwhile, picked up sizeable delegate support at state conventions in Michigan and Missouri over the weekend and Texas Democrats selected Lt. Gov. Preston Smith their gubernatorial nominee by a landslide.

Backers of both Humphrey and Kennedy claimed victory in the Michigan delegate elections. Spot checks by newsmen appeared to bear out claims that Humphrey would receive 63 of the 96 convention votes to 16 for Kennedy and 2 for McCarthy.

With 15 uncommitted so far, Humphrey got at least 57 of Missouri's 60 delegates at a state convention.

On the Republican side, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was in Wisconsin today saying he realizes the state's GOP delegation is committed to Nixon but that he would meet with "friends of delegates."

Rockefeller repeated his contention that Nixon does not have the GOP presidential nomination sewed up and that the national convention will be open to other candidates.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said he would accept the vice presidential nomination if it

Reserve Unit in Training

FT. POLK, La. (AP) — The Army Reserve's 95th Division, composed of troops from Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma, arrived at Ft. Polk during the weekend to begin two weeks of active duty training.

More than 3,700 members of the division arrived here to help train regular army recruits processed through this basic training center.

were offered by the GO P presidential candidate—and said he felt Nixon was "99 and 44-100s per cent sure of getting the nomination."

Court Refuses Mandate on G&F Hearing

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today refused to grant an immediate mandate which would clear the way for Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller to begin immediately his ouster hearings for some members of the state Game and Fish Commission.

Rockefeller has said he has evidence of misconduct in office by some members of the commission. He has not named which commissioners and he has not specified the charges. The high court handed down 24 opinions today and recessed for the summer. Chief Justice Carlton Harrison said, however, that the high court would meet again July 15 to hear any motions for rehearings that may have accumulated.

The high court held last week that the governor had the right to set up his procedure for the ouster hearings. However, the commissioners have the right of motion for rehearing which gives them an additional time beyond the recessing of the court.
